Brian Adam's Transport boosts white-glove fleet with new trailers from KRONE

The investment, says Brian Adam strengthens the company's premium "white-glove" service, which supports furniture retailers with national deliveries, warehousing, stock control and trunking operations.

The new trailers are UK-spec tandem-axle KRONE Carbofont vans fitted with high-security shutter rear doors and Durabright aluminium wheels. Each trailer runs on KRONE Trusted tyres and features full KRONE telematics and LED lighting for enhanced safety and monitoring.

With an internal height of 2,615 mm, the Carbofont dry-freight trailers are ideal for high-volume furniture and other bulky items. Internal load security is assured through three rows of load lock, certified to EN 12642 Code XL, supported by 13 pairs of floor-integrated lashing rings.

A rear pull-out access ladder makes for easy and safe driver access, and KRONE backs the build with a 10-year warranty against corrosion perforation on all steel parts.

Brian Adam's Transport has built a strong reputation across Scotland and northern England, covering some 800,000 miles annually and completing around 20,000 individual furniture deliveries each year. The company operates both as a specialist trunking contractor and as a dedicated home-delivery partner for major furniture retailers.

Under the Executive Home Delivery brand, the business provides a fully managed, one-to-two-person white-glove service, combining careful handling, uniformed staff, live tracking and flexible customer scheduling. The company also offers comprehensive warehousing, retail delivery support, removal services and stock-management solutions.

Operations Manager Andrew Adam, commenting on LinkedIn, said: "New Trailers – Same First-Class

Service! When it comes to furniture delivery, we know the right equipment makes all the difference. From trunking to 1 & 2 person deliveries, white-glove service and recycling, these beauties are built to help us deliver smarter, safer and sharper than ever before.”

The choice of KRONE Carbofont dry-frieght trailers reflects the company’s determination to combine secure, high-capacity transport with the finesse required for premium home delivery.

“KRONE’s professionalism and product quality matches our own values,” adds Andrew Adam. “Their responsive and knowledgeable service made the procurement and delivery process straightforward, and we now have trailers that truly meet the demands of modern furniture logistics.”
