Bring concludes framework agreement with Krone for curtainsider trailers

Oslo/Werlte, January 2016 – An agreement between Krone and the Norwegian logistics operator Bring has recently been signed by Equipment Director Jan Anderson for the supply of curtainsider trailers over the next three years. The first 150 trailers are already being delivered and the official handover of the first new Bring semi-trailer took place recently in front of the impressive opera house in Oslo. At the event, Jan Andresen emphasised that in addition to price and quality, service and flexibility were also factors that led to this long-standing collaboration. Depending on the requirements, the units are either purchased or leased through Krone Fleet. Ingo Geerdes, Director Key Account Management, Krone Fleet & Krone Used as well as Søren Outzen, Director Krone Fleet DK, expressed gratitude for the trust and excellent collaboration in the past years. They both emphasised that of course, as a reliable service provider, Krone will be at Bring's disposal for anything they may need. About Bring:
Bring is a trademark of the Norwegian Post, providing CEP and logistics services especially for business customers in the Nordic area. Bring is one of the leading logistics service providers within the Nordics. Bring moves large quantities of goods, packages and food within the northern countries as well as in and out of international markets.
